

Infant research and clinical implications

Contents

Introduction . . . . .	95
Implicit knowledge in infant development and therapeutic context, Massimo Ammaniti . . . . .	96
Integrating kleinian theory and intersubjective infant research observing projective identification, Stephen Seligman . . . . .	110
The expanding world of Edward Tronick, Beatrice Beebe, Frank M. Lachmann . . . . .	136
The role of the other: intersubjective psychic transmissions and pathological structures of the self, Giuseppe Moccia . . . . .	148

---